ZJK Industrial Corrects ‘Flat Revenue’ Claim in Cramer’s Mad Money Mention, Estimates 32% 3-Year CAGR

Shenzhen, China, Mar. 11, 2025 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- ZJK Industrial Co. Ltd. (NASDAQ: ZJK) (“ZJK Industrial”, “ZJK” or the “Company”), a high-tech precision parts and hardware manufacturer for artificial intelligence (AI) infrastructure, consumer electronics, electric vehicles, aerospace and other smart technologies, today addressed recent misstatements made by Jim Cramer on CNBC’s Mad Money during the Lightning Round segment, in which the Mad Money host inaccurately claimed that ZJK had “flat revenues” over the past three years.

During the “Lightning Round” segment, a caller asked Cramer about ZJK Industrial, to which he responded:

“I know because of the NVIDIA connection. I have to tell you, they have flat revenues for the last three years - sounds a little like SoundHound. I’m going to take a pass on that one.”

ZJK Revenue Growth Data

Contrary to Cramer’s statement, ZJK’s revenues have consistently increased year over year. As previously stated in a February 25th, 2025 press release, preliminary data from the Company’s unaudited financials for the fiscal year ending December 31st, 2024, indicates that ZJK’s revenue grew by more than 40% compared to the fiscal year ended December 31, 2023 and resulting in a 3-year CAGR of more than 32%.

“While we appreciate the opportunity to be featured on Mad Money and understand the fast-paced nature of the program, ZJK has achieved more than 33% average annual growth over the past three years which is far from ‘flat’ by any financial metric, as Mr. Cramer suggested,” said ZJK CEO Ning Ding.
